A CRIMINAL'S EVENTFUL CAREER

The Man Who Travels [illegible] and Fleeced Wealthy Men [illegible]

NEW YORK, April [illegible]—[Special.]—[illegible] yesterday arrested Wm. Griffis, with a half dozen aliases, who has led a life of [illegible] [illegible] more than one army [illegible] Griffis was arrested [illegible] a jeweler who [illegible] then passing under the title [illegible] and asserted that he was an Englishman travelling in this country. [illegible] bought jewelry worth $1800 and paid for it in forged notes of the [illegible] Banking Company of London. Griffis was the central figure of a board of forgers and counterfeiters who in 1878 flooded the large cities of this country with circular drafts. His career at that time gave him much newspaper notoriety. He is comparatively a young man, but is now

A COMPLETE PHYSICAL WRECK.

Last night, when locked up in the station, he said that he expected to live only a short time. He suffers from hemorrhage of the lungs. Griffis was born in England, and in 1861 he was sent to Eton. From that college he entered the service of the Bank of England. While an employe there he became familiar with bank notes and experimented in counterfeiting them. After a brief stay in that place he went to China as confidential clerk of a wealthy London tea importer in Hongkong, Shanghai and Pekin. For some transaction of a dubious character he was forced to leave and came to America. He reached New York in 1867 and for several years was employed as a clerk and lived a quiet life. Becoming weary of quietness he turned his attention to fraud and lithographing and again experimented with marked success in this direction. He became acquainted with

who were then in operation in his city and was induced to become one of them. Walter J. Fliss, alias Esmond, one of the gang, and their leader, availing himself of Griffis' knowledge of European banks, they forged untold quantities of London bank notes. Kounbell Bros., Jessop & Co. and other down town firms were swindled by the forgers. Not content with paying their drafts they traveled over the country scattering forgeries broadcast. In Boston, where Griffis passed as M. W. Harville, he became acquainted with a woman named Georgetta, a forger, and induced her to accompany him. They went as Lord and Lady Ashburton, and lived in sumptuous style at the Lindell house, St. Louis. Superintendent Walling sent Detective Cummings after him, but when the detective got there the forger

HAD GONE TO DENVER.

There he was found out by Joy, a Denver detective. Joy offered to give him up to Superintendent Walling, provided he was well paid. Walling's terms were not high enough, and Joy struck a blackmail bargain with Ashburton, and together they traveled to San Francisco. The woman, however, remained in Denver. In San Francisco E. J. Baldwin, proprietor of the Palace hotel, with Mathew Capill, Brown & Thompson and other stockbrokers were swindled. He made thousands of dollars and was freely bled by Joy. Finally the Denver detective became unbearable and Griffis told him he would give him no more money. Joy denounced him to the police.

THE CRIMINAL WAS ARRESTED.

Failing to be indicted through some technicality, he was sent to Virginia City and prosecuted on charges by the Bank of Nevada. He was sentenced to eight years in prison. This was in the fall of 1879. Last November he was released from the Nevada prison, as he was thought to be dying. He went to San Francisco and married a girl of twenty, a distant relative. He took his bride to southern California, but became worse and finally determined to return and die at home. He reached this city a few days ago. Kirkpatrick, the jeweler, had never forgotten the grand English nobleman who had robbed him, and learning of his return to this city he had him arrested. His young wife called to see him in his cell last night, and the scene between them was affecting.

DENVER'S DEFENDER.

His Nobility of Character Evidenced in a Duel—Entered Already for the Presidential Race

NEW YORK, April 27.—[Special.]—The following remarkable communication was in the Herald yesterday morning, signed W. M. Cornwall, 50 Montgomery street, San Francisco:

The San Francisco Bulletin republished an article from the Herald, in which General James W. Denver is mentioned as an eligible candidate for the presidency. As reference is made to the fact that at the time Denver was secretary of state of California he engaged in a duel with Edward Gilbert, who was editor of the Alta Californian, the article is prejudicial, because it does not detail the circumstances connected with the deplorable duel. The incident of which it was a result was an article published in the Alta Californian respecting a family named Donner, which perished en route in an attempt to emigrate overland to California in 1850. The state learning of the destitution of the emigrants provided means for their relief, and the duty of dispensing it was delegated to the secretary of state. This was prompt and humane, but it was by Gilbert. Denver is a clear, sound man, sensitive and brave. He retorted, and his retort was terrible. Gilbert, who was a member of Colonel Stevenson's New York regiment, challenged Denver, and the parties went upon the field. The weapons were rifles at short range, and I assert as a witness that no man in the tide of all the centuries ever displayed a more dauntless temper than Denver. He knew Gilbert was a brave soldier and that he was reputed to be a deadly shot. Nevertheless Denver received his fire and purposely threw away his own. Happily Denver escaped unhurt. Every effort was then made by the seconds, and by mutual friends, for peace. Gilbert was informed that his antagonist wished to clasp hands, but Gilbert refused the request, in terms which shamed his friends, and showed that he had determined to kill Denver.

THE PRINCIPALS RETURNED TO THEIR POSITIONS.

"Now," said Denver, in a tone I shall never forget, "I must defend myself." At the word Gilbert fell pierced through the heart. I assert that no man more than Denver disdains this mode of arbitration, but Washington himself would have defended his life. He owed it to his country, and he would have defended it as a trust only from the Creator. He was an impersonation of great thought. Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori."

Cornwall then adds: Here in California Denver's name and memory are honored and cherished. If the nation desires to unify the Pacific—if it wish to make us practically, as we are to-day nominally, members of a great political union—let it give us Denver for president and we will indorse him with acclamation.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK.

The "Public's" Report Shows that Things are going from Bad to Worse

NEW YORK, April 27.—[Special.]—The Public to-day says: Clearing house exchanges for the past week again make an unfavorable showing, although the percentage of the decrease, both for the total and of twenty-five cities outside of New York, is smaller than last week. At New York exchanges for the last week show a loss of 16.7 per cent, compared with the corresponding week of last year, while the percentage of decrease of exchanges, after deducting double the value of stocks sold during the week, for both years, is 28.5 per cent. The payments made for speculation were over $15,000,000 larger this year than last. Speculation in other markets has been active, while payments on account of speculation in all branches have been undoubtedly larger this year than last. Showing of clearings for legitimate business is very unsatisfactory, more so than for any previous week for some time past. Outside of New York the report is not so bad, but as it seems to go from bad to worse there is very little comfort in it.

THE REVIVAL NOT TEMPORARY.

Early this year reports began to show some decided improvements and so continued with some irregularity, until the latter part of March last. Before congress adjourned everyone was hopeful and in consequence clearings were even more satisfactory, but later advices seem to show this good feeling unwarranted, and with import failures and many disturbing influences the future is not very clear unless everything goes in our favor during the coming summer. Last week 17 out of 26 cities reporting show a decrease compared with the same week last year, the week previous only 14 reported decrease. Two cities that reported decrease last week show a small increase this week, and four cities reporting increase show considerable change to the other side for this week, two of which are Chicago and Pittsburg. Of nine cities reporting an increase both weeks, at all but 3 the percentage is smaller for last week than the one previous.

MEZAROFF'S MANIFESTO.

He Advocates the Use of Dynamite and Maps out a Plan that Will Make Tyrants Tremble

NEW YORK, April 27.—[Special.]—Prof. Mezaroff of the dynamite school has issued series "Number One" of his manifestos, advocating dynamite as a weapon entirely legitimate. He says: "We now inform ignorant and cowardly emissaries, tyrants in this country and Europe, that the advocates of dynamite are in a condition to take care of themselves, and in a short time Ireland and every other country will be freed from tyranny and czardom. Our case is exciting universal sympathy, and cannot be cried down by knaves in Europe. There are now over 400 schools, and ere long there will be 4000, so that every trade society and every workingman's club shall be taught the science of explosives, and we, tutors of the soldiers of Europe, be ready to strike with us any day in the cause of human liberty, and when we do so we shall make

TYRANTS SHUDDER ON THEIR THRONES.

Every Irishman should subscribe not less than $1, and every man subscribing to shall receive a bond, interest and principal of which shall be paid from taxation on Irish land. Of all Irishmen, would [illegible] as there probably are [illegible] men who would subscribe from $1 [illegible] payable in from one to six months. In this way [illegible] $1,000,000 could be raised in that time [illegible] each bondholder would have an interest in

IRELAND'S FREEDOM.

While a committee were [illegible] [illegible] small vessels [illegible] that [illegible] at least at the rate of twenty [illegible] will submit to the committee plans by which vessels can be built [illegible] that they cannot be sunk by any man of war. [illegible] vessel should carry at least thirty spare torpedoes and several hundred [illegible] pellets, so there would be need [illegible] of every man of war that wishes [illegible] little craft [illegible] and equipped for $1,000,000.

GERMANY.

PARNELL'S DEMANDS BOUND TO BE REFUSED AFTER [illegible] [illegible]

BERLIN, April 27.—The National Zeitung declares that it is impossible for England to accede to any further demands of Parnell in regard to the condition of Ireland, and declares that honor demands an unequivocal disavowal by Parnell of the dynamite policy of the Irish extremists.

Three Thousand Men at Work on the California and Oregon Railroad—The Rush of Freight to the Northwest

CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Cargoes Daily Increasing

SAN FRANCISCO, April [illegible].—[Special.]—The rush of freight [illegible] continues [illegible] The steamer Oregon, which sailed yesterday, refused [illegible] [illegible] two days previously her day of sailing, and enough was on the wharf this morning to more than insure full freight for the State of California, which arrived yesterday. This afternoon the company refused freight for the State, and began receiving for the Columbia. The Walla Walla, neither of which has arrived in port, [illegible] steamship Eliza [illegible] sails for Victoria and way ports to-morrow, three days prior to her usual time. [illegible] will carry full freight and passengers, and will be followed by the Walla Walla as soon as her cargo can be discharged. [illegible] a large quantity of agricultural implements is taken on board for the Puget Sound trade. The [illegible] will take immigrants for Washington territory, and the steamer Barlow, which was purchased by a local firm, sails to-morrow for Victoria and Puget Sound carrying passengers and a large freight list.

Three Thousand Men at Work

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—[Special.]—In an interview this afternoon with Charles J. Crocker, he stated that within the past two weeks the force at work on the California and Oregon railroad has been largely increased, so that at present it numbers close on 3000 laborers. The work is principally directed towards reducing heavy grades north of Redding and to the completion of a number of large tunnels. All available force formerly engaged on the Colorado extension has been moved to the line of the California and Oregon, with the exception of about 200 men, who would be transferred there in about two weeks. Material was sent forward some time previous, so that there is nothing to prevent the speedy completion of the road except natural difficulties existing on the proposed line. J. H. Strobridge, superintendent of construction on the Central Pacific, has just returned from the scene of operations and reports work progressing as fast as could be expected under the circumstances.

The Hawaiian Government Objects to Chinese

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—A statement is made by H. W. Severance, Hawaiian consul at this port, in which he states that he has been informed that the Hawaiian government has taken steps to check the large and sudden influx of Chinese immigration, by which it is threatened from Hongkong. At a meeting of the cabinet council a resolution was adopted reciting that there is now in the population of the kingdom an injurious disproportion of sexes, amounting to about 20,000 more males than females, in a population of about 70,000, and instructing the minister of foreign affairs to notify the authorities of Hongkong that the government protests against the excessive immigration of men alone and will take steps to prevent its continuance. The government of Hongkong has accordingly been notified that such immigration will not be allowed, and the Chinese minister at Washington at the request of the Hawaiian minister will telegraph his government to check such immigration as speedily as possible.

The Blythe Affair.

The Blythe case came up before Judge Finn of the probate department of the superior court this morning. All the attorneys for the various contestants being present, the judge stated that he had decided it not necessary to issue special letters of administration on the estate, the authority granted the public administrator being sufficient to enable him to collect rents and generally subserve the interests of the estate. As the parties interested were unable to agree on any person on whom the court could confer similar authority, he saw no reason for revoking the original order appointing the public administrator.

The Races at Oakland Park

The fourth annual spring meeting of the Pacific Coast Blood-horse association at the Oakland trotting park has been very successful. The grand event of the races to-morrow will be a ¾ mile dash between Fred Collier, Precious, Fortress, Maria F., May D. and Inauguration, when the record of California, it is expected, will be again beaten. A five-eighths dash for 2 year olds, a mile and three-eighths dash for 3 year olds and a hurdle race, mile and a half dash will follow.

Federal Funds Short

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Notice has been given by the U. S. district attorney that the appropriation for the department of justice was getting low, and urging that the expenses be cut down as much as possible till the close of the fiscal year. The reason for this scarcity of money in the fund is attributed to the enormous expenses incurred in the prosecution of the star route cases.

Dog Show

The bench show of the Pacific Coast Kennel Club opened this morning with about 300 entries, including every species of canine in the world, from terriers to mastiffs. Fowls have also been admitted, and among the curiosities in this line is a trained light Brahma cock, which fires a cannon, shakes hands and fights dogs, and performs many other wonderful and eccentric things.

Mysterious Death.

A mysterious death occurred at the International hotel last night. A lodger who registered as J. Laddock, of Fresno, was found dead in bed. The room was filled with gas. He had several letters in his pocket, one of which was addressed to C. D. Needles, East Portland. From appearance he is thought to have been a commercial traveler.

The Madera Homicide.

FRESNO, April 27.—Yesterday morning Jas. Moran appeared at Madera and stated that during the night before he had had a fight with Ed McCormack, at O'Mara's sheep camp, four miles north of there, and that he had been knocked senseless, and when he came too he found his companion lying dead some seventy feet from the cabin. Justice Cha[illegible] repaired to the scene, and found evidence of a fierce struggle, and McCormack lying dead as stated, but there were no marks or bruises to indicate the cause of his death, but his face and neck were discolored as if from strangulation. Moran was under the influence of liquor when he went to Madera. An inquest is being held.

ARIZONA.

Charley McComas Killed by Apaches.

TUCSON, April 21.—[Special.]—A gentleman just arrived from San Carlos brings positive information of the killing of little Charley McComas by his captors. The information seems to be reliable. A wounded Apache, who was one of the party accessory to the abduction, told one of the employes at San Carlos that when about four leagues from the reservation the Indians grown tired of the burden of caring for the boy, as he could not ride or care for himself, knocked him in the head with a rock and killed him. The Indian offered to guide anyone to the place and show them the body. The name of the employe of the agency can be easily obtained, and parties interested can learn the facts and cause an effort to be made to secure the remains of the unfortunate child.

General Crook is believed to have crossed over into Mexico, but nothing is known as to his movements, and he is so far from telegraph communication that it may be some time before any information is received from his command. The Mexican authorities have already entered the Sierra Madres, and it is believed the campaign will be continued till the Indians are disposed of.

The Indian Outbreak at the North

VICTORIA, April 27.—[Special.]—News about the Chilcoaten outbreak is to the effect that a small predatory band of Chilcoatens, after murdering two Chinese, started on a plundering expedition. Destasy yesterday sold his body to physicians for $150, and was duly delivered to-day. This morning he inspected the scaffold and examined the rope, suggesting that the latter be soaped.

CINCINNATI, April 27.—Philip Thompson, Jr., member of congress from the eighth district of Kentucky, shot and killed Walter Davies at Harrodsburg, Ky., this morning. The Demand for the New Tobacco Stamps

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The commissioner of internal revenue says the supply of new tobacco stamps called for under the new law is sufficient to meet all demands. While the bureau may not be able to supply all requisitions for these stamps made by manufacturers and dealers of internal revenue by the 1st of May, when the law goes into operation, all applicants will be supplied with a sufficient number to meet the demands for stamps for current use. The large amount of stamps called for in requisitions is explained by the fact that collectors and other applicants desire to secure a stock to keep them supplied for three or four months. The commissioner says these requisitions will be met during the month of May.

Keim's Appointment Not Endorsed.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—[Special.]—The civil service commissioners are reported to be surprised to learn that the leading Republican newspapers of Philadelphia and Pittsburg unite in criticising the appointment of Keim and in characterizing the nominee as a person who has been more identified with the old machine system than with civil service reform. The more that is learned of the number and records of the persons who were considered for the place, the more it is clear that conspicuous fitness for the position and consistent records as an earnest civil service reform advocate were not the considerations which controlled the selection of a chief examiner.

Folger and His Assistants

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Assistant Secretary French resumed the duties of acting secretary of the treasury, which during his absence were performed by Assistant Secretary New. French holds a commission from the president as secretary in the absence or illness of the secretary, and New holds a similar commission in the absence or illness of both the secretary and Assistant French. Secretary Folger, while not ill or indisposed, has too many important questions under consideration to devote the time necessary to signing official mail and to pass upon routine matters requiring prompt attention.

The Charges Against Hill

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The attorney general has designated John S. Blair as counsel to prosecute the charges against Architect Hill, now under investigation at the treasury department. Secretary Folger has suggested to Murch, who preferred the charges, the name of D. T. Alexander, fifth auditor of the treasury, as a member of the special investigating commission in place of Assistant Solicitor Robinson.

Cabinet Meeting

WASHINGTON, April 27.—All members were present at the regular cabinet meeting to-day. The session lasted about three hours and was mainly devoted to consideration of the new civil service regulations as prepared by the commission and now waiting approval of the president. No action was reached with regard to them, and they will be taken up again for further consideration at the next cabinet meeting.

Diplomatic Correspondence

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The forthcoming volume of diplomatic correspondence is now nearly ready for public distribution. It shows that the invitation of the United States for a peace congress of nations in North and South America was accepted very promptly by nearly every government to which it was sent. There was none of the diplomatic delay usually attending important propositions.

Star Route Trial

WASHINGTON, April 27.—In the star route case to-day Ker finished his review of the evidence in the Bismarck and Tongue river route, and after thanking the jury for their patient attention began a general summing up of the points which in his opinion had been established by the evidence submitted in the case taken as a whole. Adjourned until Monday.

Ask Pay for Timber

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The secretary of the interior will to-morrow hear evidence in the case of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians vs. the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad company. Boynton, Washington newspaper correspondent, and C. A. Boynton, Washington correspondent of the associated press, were at the bedside. The deceased has served as pastor of the Vine street Congregational church of this city for 35 years, and also preached in eastern churches and served two terms as chaplain of the house of representatives at Washington, beginning in 18[illegible]. GUAYMAS, April [illegible].—[Special.]—The Yaqui Indians have attacked a wood camp, carrying off stock and other property. It is feared an insurrection of the Yaquis is likely to occur. The federal troops are mostly hunting Apaches on the frontier, and the opportunity is good.

SOMETHING ABOUT CENTRAL TILLAMOOK

HEBO, April [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It seems this part of Tillamook has never even received a passing notice in any of the papers of the state, so I will give you a sketch of this section of Oregon. I saw a glowing account of Tillamook in your paper of March 10, which does ample justice, I think, to that part of the county. Still we think his Tillamook is good as that. Hebo is a newly established postoffice on the Nestucca some 20 miles from Tillamook bay, in the center of the county. The Nestucca has about 10 miles of tide water, with splendid soil on each side of the stream from the bay up some 20 miles. The bottom land is narrow, not more than three quarters of a mile wide on an average, but the foothills are low, with numerous small streams running down from the main mountains, on which there is considerable good land, as good as there is in the state, vacant. The county has no mills, although there is quite a demand for lumber, which has to be shipped in at a great [illegible]. I think a mill would pay. The timber is mostly dead from fires, but there is some fine yellow fir, which is green, near the river, enough to run a large mill for years—and good water power near at hand, immediately at the head of tide water. We also have some fine alder as can be found anywhere, and some spruce, but not much of the latter. We have a small bay with nine feet of water at low tide. The steamer Kate and Anna calls [illegible] now and then with supplies, which are never lacking [illegible] sell for cash.

Alvin [illegible] has shipped a cargo of [illegible] by the steamer, which is hourly expected, which he hopes to sell with a reasonable profit, which makes us happy as far as that goes.

The Tillamook Packing Company have purchased a tract of land near the mouth of the river for fishing purposes. So you see we are on the improve. Considerable number of cattle are raised here. Some of our farmers are putting [illegible] think they can do as well as they can in Washington territory.

The [illegible] Grand Ronde [illegible] county [illegible] [illegible] now [illegible] [illegible] which [illegible] will be the best wagon road [illegible] from the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

We have a new school house [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a good settlement [illegible]

LAND LEAGUERS.

Ten Million Irishmen and Irish-Americans United Yesterday.

O'DONOVAN ROSSA'S FACTION DISTANCED

Stormy Scenes on the Floor of the Convention—Ireland Pronounced in Bitter Terms—Mrs. Parnell's Speech—Irish Bulls

PHILADELPHIA, April [illegible].—[Special.]—When the convention of Irishmen met in Horticultural hall yesterday there was a clamor among the crowded [illegible] [illegible] o'clock, when the convention was called to order. Long before that hour delegates in the lobbies were discussing the situation. O'Donovan Rossa in a long white [illegible] got together a small crowd of admiring friends and talked dynamite and nitroglycerine and [illegible] all sorts of things against the English government. Rossa did not look in a very happy mood [illegible] [illegible] his followers were in a small minority. When A. M. [illegible] the great advocate [illegible] [illegible] face for the first time, but never spoke.

THE TAMMANY CHIEFTAIN

John Kelly, the Tammany chieftain, circulated about in the [illegible] exchanging greetings with Irishmen from all over the country. He was not a delegate. He delivered [illegible] on Ireland in the Academy of Music last night, where a reception to Patrick Egan will be held to-night. All the prominent land leaguers of the convention were on hand, and in addition delegates from all sorts of Irish societies, nearly filling the body of the hall. Promptly at noon Alex. Sullivan of Chicago appeared on the stage, and hanging on his arm was Mrs. Delia Stewart Parnell. Nearly everybody cheered except Rossa, who slipped into a seat at the extreme right of the reporters' table, and read a paper while Sullivan rapped for order. On the floor he led into delegations, w[illegible] representatives of Irish societies, [illegible] of these were priests, some [illegible] dressed, gentlemen and workingmen [illegible] wore the unmistakable garb of [illegible]

THE FUN BEGINS

Up to the [illegible] when Dorney [illegible] finished his speech [illegible] harmony, and the fun began [illegible] [illegible] the delegates had an allegation which was quickly squelched. The name of Reilly, from Detroit, started the fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting speeches to five minutes, referring resolutions to a committee and providing for the nomination by each state delegation of a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against dynamite and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in committee. A hundred wild Irishmen jumped [illegible] their feet, and yelled for fair play. They denounced it as a gag law, the effort to shut off debate by the previous question. Powers of New York, and Martin J. Griffin of Philadelphia declared it could not be done, but it was done, nevertheless, and by such an overwhelming majority as to draw out the opposition almost completely. Then came a short recess at the end of which each delegation named its member of the credentials committee, when recess till 4:30 was taken.

IRISH BULLS.

First, however, two clergymen from Australia introduced Rev. [illegible] Slattery of Vimora, who said he should embrace this reception so long as he lived till he died. There were a number of Irish bulls of this nature, as when Mr. Leahey announced, "Delegates in favor of meeting will rise and remain in their seats until counted."

The convention got together again in straggling order and adjourned a few moments after six o'clock until to-day without accomplishing its work. It is ready, however, to get right to business this forenoon. Permanent organization was effected and the usual committees appointed, and their reports will be acted upon to-day.

There was but little excitement last night, although there was a lively time in [illegible] [illegible] over the name of T. V. Powderly of Scranton for a place on the committee of reorganization of the new league. He is at the head of the Knights of Labor, and once stopped a circus in Scranton for holding an Irish [illegible] over an American [illegible]

THE CONVENTION BADLY SPLIT

The convention is split into factions. The dynamiters number probably 100 minority, who favor continuing the present land league, and a great majority who favor the new national league, merging all the Irish elements in the old countries in harmony with the league. The last named will doubtless have their way, [illegible] O'Donovan Rossa is heartily beaten in the convention, and he only hopes to organize a [illegible] [illegible] however if this will be done.

Friday's Proceedings.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2[illegible].—It was nearly 11 o'clock before the Irish National convention assembled. When the reading of the record with Dr. O'Reilly as announced, the committee on resolutions had prepared a report but it was not yet ready to present. The chairman of the committee on organization would not be ready to report until after the committee on resolutions had reported. After a long debate the committee on organization had not been able to agree on the number of [illegible] for the national league or its exact scheme of government.

The secretary then read, by unanimous consent, a communication from S. S. Cox of New York congratulating the convention on what it had achieved and declaring that it was impossible for Ireland to remain under British government. A vote of thanks was then passed to Cox.

Father Sheehy of Ireland and Father Agnew addressed the convention, congratulating it upon its temperate action and declaring that England and Scotland would be the first to feel the effects of any intemperate action.

At twenty minutes to 12 a recess was taken for two hours to await the report of committees.

The chairman of the committee on resolutions submitted his report at 2:40 P. M., as follows:

The Irish-American people, assembled in convention in Philadelphia, submit to the intelligence and right reason of their fellow men that the duty of the government is to preserve the lives of the governed, to defend their liberty, to protect their property, to maintain peace and order, to allow each person of the people an equitable and efficient share in the legislature, and to promote the general welfare by wise, just and humane laws. We solemnly declare and cite unquestioned history and universal knowledge, living testimony hereof.

First—That the English government has existed in Ireland not to preserve the lives of the governed, but to destroy them. The resolution then pictures at length the atrocities of the English government. How the blazing torch has been applied to asylums of terrified women; how the deadly bomb has been ditched and the howling sea waves, and adds: As if the sword, cannon, torch, scaffold, dagger and explosives are not enough, it enjoys the unique infamy of being the only government known to ancient or modern times which has employed famine for the destruction of those from whom it claims allegiance, forcibly robbing the Irish people of the fruits of their own toil produced by their own labor. It has buried not a hundred, not a thousand, but more than millions of the Irish race under the unconfined graves of hunger. It has likewise easily compelled other millions in compulsory poverty to seek in alien lands the bread they were entitled to in their own. Where is a form of cruelty known to the lowest savage which it has not practised on the Irish people in the name of the highest civilization? The last paragraph in this plank refers to dynamite. There is no form of retaliation to which despair or madness may resort for which English cruelty in Ireland is not exclusively responsible.

Second—We declare that the English government in Ireland has not defended the liberty of the people, but has abolished statutes enacted since Limerick, and adopted a series of coercion laws framed to deprive citizens of all vestiges of personal freedom, and reduce them to outlawry, in order to confiscate their property and compel them to flee to foreign lands.

The reading of the report was punctuated by hearty applause. At the arraignment of the English government for the first resolution the entire convention rose and cheered.

Chadwick moved that the resolutions be discussed and disposed of seriatim.

Brown of St. Louis moved as a substitute that they be adopted as read.

Finnerty of Chicago hoped the gentleman who moved the substitute would have the decency to withdraw his motion. He was opposed to putting a court plaster on a carbuncle. He appealed to Brown to withdraw his substitute for the sake of Ireland, and said that he (Finnerty) would move to lay it on the table if not withdrawn. Brown should not be actuated by a desire for a partisan triumph.

Brown declined to withdraw the motion.

Finnerty moved to lay it on the table.

Loud applause and hisses.

An excited debate was interrupted by Doherty of Boston moving the previous question on the adoption of the resolutions, which Sullivan ruled out of order, as unsettled.

Fifty men were now on their feet, and Finnerty of Chicago said:

"Are we going to be gagged here?"

He then asked if a motion to lay the motion for previous question on the table was not in order.

The chairman said: No.

"Then I decidedly differ with the chair," said Congressman Finnerty, and "as I [illegible] have no chance it is no use to try it." [illegible] low.

The resolutions were then adopted and the report on organization was then read as follows:

Whereas, In the opinion of the citizens of America and Canada, Irish and of Irish descent, it is needful for purposes hereinafter set forth for the sinking of all private prejudices and creeds in the nation they hope to secure this common end, do band themselves together under the name and title of the Irish National League of America.

Article 1—The objects of the Irish National League of America are: First—Earnestly and actively to assist the Irish National League in Ireland, with means and material support, which will enable the government to [illegible] and self-government, secure a clearer and more accurate [illegible] and assisting by the American [illegible] the political, industrial and social condition of Ireland that they may see for themselves that her [illegible] is the result of English misrule and destruction [illegible] legislation, [illegible] its own soil. [illegible] her own laws on her own soil. [illegible] will discourage [illegible] possession of all the natural and ideal rights [illegible] [illegible] in the United States.

Third—To assist the development of Irish [illegible] [illegible] by encouraging the importation to the United States of articles manufactured in Ireland, [illegible] to resolve that the [illegible] of our [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the cultivation of Irish [illegible] and [illegible] that has made a part of our race bright and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for the [illegible] and renown in every country in which he has had an equal opportunity with his fellows, to hurt the enemy where he will profit most by refusing to purchase any article of English manufacture, and by using all legitimate influence to discourage tradesmen from keeping English manufactures on sale; to abolish sectional feeling, and to keep alive the noble flame of Irish nationality, while performing faithfully the duties of American citizenship.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS

The officers of the league shall be a president, vice president, treasurer and secretary. The president shall preside at all meetings of the league and perform such other duties as may hereafter be [illegible] upon him. In the absence or inability of the president to serve, his duties shall be discharged by the vice president. The treasurer shall properly account for all money paid to him by the secretary on behalf of the league, and make a full report thereof annually to the convention of the league. The secretary shall keep a correct record of all meetings of the league, receive all money for use from subordinate branches and affiliating orders in states and counties, and pay the same over to the treasurer, taking his receipt therefor, and all moneys so paid to the secretary shall be by draft or postoffice order in favor of the treasurer. The governing body of the league shall consist of the president, vice president and council, which shall consist of one member from each state, territory, District of Columbia and Dominion of Canada, and which shall be elected by the national convention, and shall meet at least once annually, time and place for which shall be designated by the president. The governing body shall meet at least once a year, at time and place heretofore provided, and shall issue an organization in character for each state, territory and condition of Canada. They shall provide for the general welfare of the organization, and shall have power necessary to promote the interests and extend the organization and influence of the league.

Mr. Alexander Sullivan of Chicago took the floor, and Thomas Brady of New York at the same time arose among the dynamite men in the rear of the hall and earnestly protested against the proceedings. He was at once surrounded by a clamorous crowd of delegates, the chair meanwhile pleading for order. Finally the dynamite men quieted down and Sullivan nominated Rev. Dr. Chas. O'Reilly of Detroit, treasurer of the new league.

Col. Boland seconded, and Father O'Reilly was elected by acclamation.

Father Conaty nominated for president J. J. O'Bierne of Cincinnati.

Col. Boland nominated for president of the national league Alex. Sullivan, whose name was greeted with wild applause.

Sullivan received a great majority of the votes, and on motion of O'Bierne, his principal competitor, the election of Sullivan was made unanimous.

Sullivan, coming upon the stage, said he could not do justice to the position and was compelled most respectfully but firmly to decline the honors. The action of the convention would send a throb of delight into every Irish home and a shock of terror to the British parliament and the chambers at Dublin castle.

Sullivan's declination was laid on the table, and Major Byrne was elected vice president and John J. Hynes was chosen secretary.

Alice Gallagher announced that the Fannie Parnell branch of St. Louis had sent through her a check for $800 for starving people in Ireland. Miss Gallagher of St. Louis, stated that the ladies land league of St. Louis had also presented through her a check for $800. She knew that the women of the league would keep the wolf from the door, and she looked to the men to keep off the lion.

Father Conaty said Parnell could now point to ten millions united Irishmen in the American continent.

Recess taken, in order that the several delegations might select representatives for the executive committee, which was to elect a permanent council of seven for the national league.

Upon reassembling, a resolution of esteem for, and condolence with, Michael Davitt, father of the land league, incarcerated for the third time in a British dungeon, was unanimously adopted.

Ordered that a resolution of confidence and cheer be cabled to Charles Stewart Parnell.

Mrs. Parnell was introduced, and said: Ladies and gentlemen, I have been asked to crown with a wreath of laurels our immortal statesman, legislator and president, George Washington. The position in Ireland to-day is almost similar to that of our country in the revolutionary war, and I have inherited a drop of that old blood. I have also inherited Irish blood, which gives me additional claims on you. This father said, and I sustain him, that the party which secures and maintains position in an enemy's country is sure to come out ahead. I deny that my son has not secured his position.

Mrs. Parnell then placed a wreath of laurels on a bust of George Washington, amid great enthusiasm, the banner of Ireland being waved over the head at the time.

Father Conaty, who had nominated Byrne for president, solemnly entreated Sullivan to take the helm.

Mrs. Parnell trusted that Sullivan would give the new league the strength of his invaluable services.

Ex-Treasurer Egan added his words to those of Mrs. Parnell.

Redpath said the Irish commanded Sullivan to accept the position, adding that as long as conservatives controlled the policy of the new league O'Donovan Rossa would have to take a back seat.

Thomas Brennan, secretary of the Irish national league, implored Sullivan to make one more sacrifice for his country.

Sullivan came to the front of the stage, and said he recognized the voice of the people as the voice of God. In obedience to the voices of Mrs. Parnell and Messrs. Brennan, Egan and Redpath, and the voice of the convention, he would consent to act temporarily as a servant of the Irish in America, not as their leader chairman.

Foran announced Mrs. Parnell elected president of the ladies national league of America, and so called on H. T. Sheridan of Chicago to lead in the song "God Save Ireland."

The song was sung, the convention rising and joining in the chorus, and the chairman declared the convention adjourned.

THE INDIANS STARVING AND BELLIGERENT

WINNIPEG, April 27.—[Special.]—The following dispatch was received from Qu'Appelle on the 26th: A company of Indians approached the workmen at the end of the Canadian Pacific track yesterday and threatened violence. They said they were hungry, and demanded food. A detachment of mounted police was sent to the end of the track yesterday, in anticipation of further trouble with the Indians. No overt act has been committed. Pie-a-pot and Big Bear, the two Indian chiefs, have nothing against the railroad, but say the company should not invade their territory, embracing the region running from the Cypress hills, north and west of Medicine Hat, until they have been provided for according to the treaty. A report from this side of Medicine Hat says the Indians in the Cypress hills have passed a dreadful winter, and are now in a miserable condition. One of their head men says they have threatened the track layers, merely for the purpose of calling public attention to their grievances. Later reports from the end of the track are to the effect that serious trouble is likely to be the result over the Indians, who continue to menace the Pacific road workmen. Travelers who have just returned from the Medicine Hat crossing of the South Saskatchewan, report that many Indians have died from hunger and disease, and that the survivors are in an ugly frame of mind. Pie-a-pot and Big Bear have threatened the track layers, saying the Canadian Pacific Railroad had no right to push the road through that section of country until they have been provided for and the promises made to Pie-a-pot fulfilled.

THE CONTROLLING POWERS

It seems a broad statement but it is a true one that the great state problems of this country are not solved by its statesmen. Little assistance toward the accomplishment of any of the great results of the past twenty years has come from the political center of Washington. Great educational and scientific movements have spread their power and influence over the whole country that in no manner have they been aided by congress. We have built up a great system of transportation but the will, enterprise and energy which has spread it to every corner of the nation came not from senators and congressmen. We have subdued a wilderness, but professional statesmen have rarely been among the pioneers while the laws have rather hindered than helped the country's development. We have developed a press which for its educational and enlightening power has no equal, we have contributed to the permanent literature of the world, we have vindicated our honesty and established our credit.

All these great things we have done as a people. These works have been embarrassed and hindered by obstruction, ignorance, passion and confusion at Washington. Our tariff legislation is an example of congressional work. In spite of it the people have built up the general industries of the country. Our civil service is another monument of congressional stupidity and jobbery. And that great step, resumption of specie payments, was brought about not by the skill of statesmen, but by the sagacity of our transportation managers and the energy of our producers, who uniting their forces drove all competitors from the [illegible] markets of Europe thus reversing the exchanges of the world, and to this result Washington contributed the two-million-a-month silver bill. The future destiny of this country is not to be read at Washington or worked out in those political disquisitions forever buried in the Congressional Record. Disputes over the possession of a little temporary political authority—fanatics, stalwarts and machine men who believe that the control of patronage themselves is so necessary to political salvation that they are fully justified and [illegible] called upon to secure and retain it by any and every means—these disputes and [illegible] who stain them once out of the way, the destiny of this country is in the hands of [illegible], our schools, our scientific men, [illegible], our railroad builders and our producers. It is in the hands of the people.

FOR ECONOMY'S SAKE

The cost of telegraphing news over the transcontinental [illegible] is an item of heavy expense [illegible] of daily papers. In the larger [illegible] and keeping that [illegible] the features and word-carpentering [illegible] upon press dispatches for the [illegible] should be careful to see that [illegible] that will not be acceptable as [illegible] but for economy's sake the dispatches should be worded in as significant and concise language as is compatible with lucidity.

[illegible] weeks ago a dinner was given at [illegible] restaurant in New York city to [illegible] Diaz, a leading dignitary of [illegible] republic. At the dinner were [illegible] Gen. U. S. Grant, as chairman, Hon. [illegible] Russell Sage of the Pacific Mail Company and a score more of the professional [illegible] with which the city of New York is [illegible] of this sort. The speeches were of the usual stereotyped character, and the bill of fare was, in all probability, just what [illegible] would have set upon his [illegible] any other party of men who had the [illegible] pay for it, beginning with shrimp [illegible] and ending with black [illegible] punch and strong cigars. Yet [illegible] the names of the company present, the [illegible] doled forth in response to [illegible] that have long since been "done brown," [illegible] itself, were telegraphed across [illegible] for newspapers to pay for.

[illegible] suggest a plan that is more in [illegible] economy, and equally interesting. [illegible] every newspaper set up that portion of the report containing the names of the [illegible] the bill of fare, and have them [illegible] to save further composition. There [illegible] that any change of names will be [illegible]. Professional diners-out seldom are [illegible] enough to eat. Of course, such a plan would only be available in reference to [illegible] in New York, but even that [illegible] a great saving in telegraphy and composition. There can be no mistake made not [illegible] the name of the restaurant where the [illegible] is given, for the dining "dudes" who [illegible] tournaments in gluttony are certain [illegible] Delmonico's for the sake of the [illegible], even if a better dinner could be had elsewhere for less money.

A SEVERE ENACTMENT

The Maine legislature, just adjourned, enacted a very peculiar law. There are two sections of it:

> Section [illegible]. Any officer or agent of any society for the prevention of cruelty to animals may take possession of any old, maimed, disabled, diseased or injured horse or other animal not properly cared for, and may have the same valued by two reputable persons, [illegible] by him to view such horse or other animal, whereupon he may destroy, or cause to be destroyed, such beast or other animal.
> Sec. 10. In this act [illegible] the word animal shall be held to include every living creature.

As the law stands, therefore, men women and children who can be described as old, maimed, disabled, diseased or injured, if not properly cared for, are liable to be destroyed, after being viewed and valued by two reputable persons. The horrors of the inquisition pale before this fresh example of legal ferocity, and it will be worth while to view and value this enactment which concerns every living creature in Maine. Laws are to be scrutinized [illegible] and not romantically, or in an imaginative way, and this work of the Maine legislature must be subjected to the dispassionate test of precise reading and construing. Those are some of the disasters that will follow the enforcement of the statute.

Consider the tremendous discretion committed to any officer or agent of any society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. He is to decide as to age and disability, as to what constitutes a reputable person who is to view and value, and then he is to destroy or cause to be destroyed "such horse or other animal." An army of potentates is thus created. In short the state of Maine is henceforth divided into the two classes of officers or agents, and every living creature within the borders of the state to whom age or infirmity may come. Happily however as the statute stands, any agent may pass judgment on another agent, for these agents are living creatures, and judge whether he is aged or maimed and properly cared for. The agent of the Madybampa Society for the Prevention of [illegible] may have come to Portland to see the Great Eastern or other novelty and be pounced upon if he gets exhausted or lame by walking on the pavements, by a resident agent viewed, valued and destroyed for of course wandering alone through the city he could not be held as properly cared for. But this remark is merely a judicial aside not for the jury to hear.

The statute invites to fraud and violence. The agent can be corrupted, and be bribed to decide concerning neglect and injuries in a way to suit designing connections or political enemies. The mind starts back from picturing the dire results that may follow this legislation. With due respect, let the possible experience of a prominent citizen be portrayed. The father of prohibition, Mr. Neal Dow, is a living creature. Suppose he visit a remote hamlet full of anti-prohibition villagers, Hamundens. What easier matter than for the local agent of the society to present cruelty to organize a conspiracy. In his limitless discretion the agent deciding that Mr. Dow is old and not properly cared for summons two citizens whom he in his further and fiendish discretion calls reputable. The champion of prohibition is viewed, valued and destroyed. No human law has been broken and the triumph of the [illegible] is complete. It is not difficult to [illegible] against divers dealings of this sort. Any [illegible] persons can [illegible] disposed of [illegible] and will be that society for the prevention of cruelty will be formed [illegible] and every village [illegible] play about the summits of [illegible]. Discretion as [illegible] this law will become almost an object of worship.

The gravest feature of this legislation is the subtle spirit of usurpation which pervades it. Maine has tried to take the universe under her control. In this act the word animal shall be held to include every living creature. What does that mean unless it signify that any officer or agent of any society formed in Maine is to have jurisdiction over the millions upon millions who populate this planet and other worlds. There is something grand in the thought that [illegible] Smith of plantation number 4, State of Maine, may in his discretion judge that the king of the cannibal islands is old and not properly cared for, that thereupon he may call upon two of his neighbors who at the request [illegible] will proceed to view, value and destroy with dynamite that monarch. When the Maine lawmakers passed this measure they tried a legal shot to be heard round the world.

THE LIQUOR TRIALS

The barrister retained for the defense of the victims of oppression charged with violation of the liquor ordinance continues his questionable practices in the examination of jurors. Citizens called to serve upon the juries are catechised touching their opinions as to the morality of the liquor traffic and their connection with temperance organizations as well as in regard to their disposition expressed or otherwise to sustain the authorities in enforcement of the law as it now stands evidently with a view to found upon the answers a challenge for cause.

The result of trials had thus far has pretty plainly shown that this course is entirely useless as well as decidedly impertinent. Juries have as a general thing had regard to their oaths without respect to their own peculiar views upon temperance or as to the propriety of the ordinance.

Counsel for the defense still further manifests his contempt for propriety in his argument upon the trial. Yesterday afternoon in a case where the charge was clearly proven by uncontradicted witnesses, he inveighed against the ordinance as harsh and oppressive, and taking the ground that the defendant was fully justified in setting the law at defiance, called upon the jury to acquit him on that ground, notwithstanding the offense was clearly proven. Surely the learned counsel cannot mean to intimate that every man is to decide according to his own caprice or interest as to the justice or expediency of every law and order his conduct according, and that juries are bound by such decision rather than by the law itself. This certainly is a natural deduction from his argument.

The court and city attorney are possibly content to allow counsel the largest liberty since in most cases substantial justice has been done, but it is nevertheless the fact that such conduct shows an utter disregard for the proprieties of the court room and is an outrage upon public decency.

Prince Jerome Napoleon lives in simple but comfortable apartments in the Avenue d'Autin where he attempts to keep up the semblance of royalty, with a few liveried lackeys and the affectation of imperial state on a small scale. It must be confessed that in mere matters of comfort he is better off than the royalty of France has been in the past, his cosy rooms comparing favorably in this respect with the large, unhealthy museums, fitted with monumental but uncomfortable furniture, which have furnished their abodes. Prince Jerome has displayed in his dining-room numerous trophies of arms, among them the sword of the great emperor, while in other rooms are a profusion of memorials of the exile of St. Helena, and busts of "my uncle." His favorite book for reading is a large edition of the "Correspondence of Napoleon," which is well thumbed each day by this latter-day Bonaparte. The prince's principal occupation is quarreling with his sister, since he does not live with his wife, whom he formally visits once a year, and with whom he rarely corresponds. On the occasion of his recent arrest for the placarding of his manifesto the princess wrote her husband that she was "quite anxious" about him, but she did not come to see him. Their children form their only bond of sympathy.

John Brown was evidently a bigger man than Disraeli, in the estimation of Queen Victoria. When the latter died, two years ago, her majesty wrote in the Court Circular: "The queen received this morning, with feelings of the deepest sorrow, the sad intelligence of the death of the Earl of Beaconsfield, in whom her majesty loses a most valued and devoted friend and counsellor, and the nation one of its most distinguished statesmen." When the Scotch gillie passed away the queen expressed in public and private manifestations the greatest grief, and seizing a pen, wrote with her own hand to the Court Circular as follows: "To her majesty the loss is irreparable, and the death of this truly faithful and devoted servant has been a grievous shock to the queen. An honest, faithful and devoted follower, a trustworthy, discreet and straightforward man, and possessed of strong sense, he filled a position of great and anxious responsibility, the duties of which he performed with such constant and unceasing care as to secure for himself the real friendship of the queen." The canny Scot had evidently made himself solid.

The High License Fight

Hillsboro Independent

The high license struggle in Portland is growing stronger and stirring up more intense feeling every day. The high license party is led by The Oregonian and the great moral and religious classes, while the opposition made up of all the elements that naturally oppose any restriction on the appetite is led by the Northwest News are arrayed against them. The Oregonian [illegible] course is particularly bold, manly and masterly. It wisely seeks to harmonize the impracticable temperance prohibition reformers and the high license class. The saloon element [illegible] by wholesale dealers and drummers are putting up money liberally to defend the cases in court, a number of the liquor dealers having been arrested and locked up in jail for selling liquor without license, and a [illegible] for a [illegible] struggle in the coming city election for the control of municipal affairs are making. It is a struggle of money and vice on the side and morals and good order on the other, and unless the moral classes are more [illegible] with [illegible] vigilant than they usually are, [illegible] it is not difficult to see how it will terminate.

But high license is the medium and wise ground for all lovers of [illegible]. Prohibition [illegible] farce there. High license would [illegible] the saloons [illegible] and the [illegible] less than one half. It would shut up [illegible] murders [illegible] respectable dealers [illegible] necessary for them to [illegible] stable. As in Germany where there is [illegible] system drunkenness [illegible] become more and more disgraceful [illegible] deal [illegible] of their business [illegible].

But the extreme temperance [illegible] license will make liquor [illegible] the [illegible] This reason [illegible] the more whisky is drunk [illegible] terested in the business [illegible] money can be raised [illegible] and boys and young men [illegible] disreputable places [illegible] all saloons where [illegible] their employers or [illegible].

We hope the high license party will prevail, but if not the [illegible] which will sound the death knell [illegible] free whisky. Let the friends of [illegible] prohibition rally together for 1884 [illegible] one important step will be taken toward the good of temperance reform—prohibition.

*The woman who seeks relief from pain by the free use of alcoholic stimulants and narcotic drugs, finds what she seeks only so far as sensibility is destroyed or temporarily suspended. No cure was ever wrought by such means and the longer they are continued the more hopeless the case becomes. Leave chloral, morphia and belladonna alone and use Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THE MORTGAGE TAX LAW

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

In The Oregonian of the [illegible] instant [illegible] a communication from a [illegible] [illegible] attempt [illegible] of the legislative [illegible] on a [illegible] bill No. [illegible] I will say just here in answer to the inquiry that I am in [illegible] a mistake. When the [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. President—We your committee on assessments to which was referred senate bill No. 4 [illegible] that it do pass.

HENRY HALL, Chairman.

I know of my own knowledge that when senate bill No. 4 was read in the senate [illegible] referred [illegible] committee on assessments [illegible] [illegible] senate bill No. 5 [illegible] I have [illegible] [illegible] what Mr. [illegible] was chairman.

The record [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. President—Your committee on assessments have [illegible] senate bill No. [illegible] and recommend that it [illegible] do pass with the amendments hereto attached.

Respectfully submitted, J. D. LEE, Chairman."

Thus it will be seen that the part of the journal which says that senate bill No. 4 was referred to the committee on assessments is a mistake, and has reference to senate bill No. 5. But there is no trouble about the matter any way. There are two other records that forever settle the question as to whether the bill known as S. B. No. 5 was read the second time in the senate. The entries made on the back of the original bill by the chief clerk of the senate, and which can be seen at any time in the office of the secretary of state, are as follows:

S. B. No. 5. Read first time September 15, '82. Rules suspended and bill read second time by title September 21, '82, referred to committee on assessments. Reported October 3, 1882, with amendments adopted and made special order for to-morrow at 2 P. M. Report engrossed and read third time October 6, 1882, and passed. A. MIKE, Ch. Clerk."

This is the history of the bill in the senate, and the other record of the action of the senate in regard to the bill is to be found in the secretary's office at Salem in the senate calendar, and is the same as the one given above. There is nothing in the point that the bill was not read the second time in the senate in view of these records.

A charge of vagrancy was preferred against the former [illegible] of disorderly conduct against the latter [illegible] from Petty. They should both receive the utmost limit of the law

PUSHING THE WORK—The old wooden buildings which have for many years done service on the corner of First and Clay streets [illegible] at last been torn down, carted away and the debris burned. The [illegible] for the new two story [illegible] erected there [illegible] was begun yesterday and a large force of men are engaged [illegible] pushing the work rapidly forward. Justice White, who formerly had his court in the old [illegible] building, has fitted up his office in the second story of a new frame building on First street, between Clay and Market.

HAY ITEM—Every newspaper man remembers Mark Twain's startling item "a load of hay was seen coming into town to-day from the west." Yesterday several loads were seen coming into the city from the west and a reporter in conversation with one of the teamsters learned that it came from A. H. Johnson's farm, near Reedville, and that it was part of a lot of forty tons, sold to the O. T. Co., at $28 per ton. If farmers could find a market for hay at that price or even $10 per ton they could make much more money by raising hay than wheat.

As is usual they extend to the right and left at an angle with the landing, and it is reported that the owners of adjacent property consider their rights in regard to the river frontage encroached upon and that litigation will ensue. KEEP PORTLAND MONEY AT HOME

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I understand that a movement is on foot to send out of our city and state for the fireworks display for the coming "glorious Fourth." Now while I am an admirer of free interstate traffic I am decidedly of opinion that preference should be given to Oregon workmen and Oregonian manufactures. Our past experience has proved indisputably that Portland [illegible] is away ahead of anything imported. I say give our local manufacturers a chance. Keep our money where it belongs and Vulcan like, assist to build up our city and state

I am given to understand, and that on excellent authority, that should the contract for the pyrotechnic display on the coming anniversary be sent away to California the subscription list will be light. Can we afford this? I think not. Therefore give the man who has so satisfactorily done his work, a chance over foreigners.

NOTES FROM NESTUCCA

[OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN]

NESTUCCA, Tillamook county, April [illegible]

The recent reported wreck again brings forward the fact that it is becoming a necessity that signal stations should be located along our dangerous coast. Nestucca should have one as it is between the most prominent points of shipping, and has good facilities for such purpose [illegible] bay and beach. The bay and roadway [illegible] Want of such action is detrimental to the welfare of the country because vessels will not run in there on risk.

The lumber interest of this place ought to be seen to also the salmon fishery, the waters affording the finest [illegible] A cannery would do well here

A [illegible] also fine cedar and fir [illegible] the finest [illegible] on the coast—beautiful [illegible] hills which tempt the visitor with a fine [illegible] in view of the ocean and a beach for sixteen miles [illegible] A first class hotel and a well finished toll road are the two present needs for the development of the prettiest beach on the coast

LOSS OF A HUNDRED DOLLAR BILL.

Branch "Legitimate" Business Carried on by [illegible] of the Free Whisky Association

The case of Thomas Bates charged with the larceny of a $100 bill from H. A. Smith, came up in the police court yesterday. From the testimony of Smith it appears that he arrived here a few days since from eastern Oregon with several hundred dollars in his pocket. He visited several cheap whisky saloons and became somewhat intoxicated. At last a tall man named Burns introduced himself to Smith and in the evening steered him against a faro game in Joe Taylor's saloon. Burns staked Smith's money freely against the game, and it was speedily raked in till his last dollar was gone. Then he was taken to his hotel and left and knew no more about anything for twenty four hours. He is under the impression that he was drugged. He was certain that the defendant, Bates, was the person who took his money

Joe Taylor testified that Smith came to his gambling room at the rear of his saloon and that he had a $100 bill. Joseph was called in to see whether the bill was good or not. He took it out to an expert and finding that it was good the dealer changed it for Smith and Burns staked it, and the bank won it. Bates was not dealing according to Taylor's statement. During the trial Joe had the sympathy of a number of his brethren of the liquor dealers association, who evidently considered the arrest of Joe's dealer as an attempt to interfere with his legitimate business. The case was taken under advisement

Joe denies that his faro bank is a brace game, but when it is considered that advantage was taken of Smith being drunk to steer him in there, and that the steerer was the notorious Burns, who assisted the thief Howard to escape through the Star Parlors saloon after the latter had robbed a man in the Montreal saloon, it will be suspected by many that Smith fell among [illegible] He was robbed at all events. Fo[illegible] young men from the sheep ranges of Eastern Oregon who are as innocent as the flocks they tended come to this city all unprepared to cope with the wolves lying in wait for them at one fine business these the following lines written by [illegible] who had been steered are here commended

> [illegible] Bars of the board,
> And bet them one by one,
> The faro dealer took my checks,
> Until they all were gone
> Come, all you gay young gambolliers,
> Of cat [illegible] games beware,
> And only spread with gentlemen
> Who play upon the square

FROM PRESCOTT.

PRESCOTT, W. T., April [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

As we can now go from Prescott to Portland in one day it is but natural that we should feel correspondingly nearer. It is quite a literary treat to receive THE OREGONIAN so soon from the press and those who wish to know of doings in the east are gratified to receive them almost the day after they happen

Farmers are almost through seeding and are commencing to plow for summer fallow

The excitement of taking up land near the new town of Prescott is almost over, for there is no more to take up. The steep hills around here which but a few years ago were thought proof against ever being anything but a grass-producing section, are now all claimed as preemptions or homesteads or timber claims. The soil proves to be rich and the owners value them highly because of their convenient shipping point, and those having farms are glad to avail themselves of the excellent educational advantages afforded. Farms already improved on the Touchet are valued from $30 to $50 per acre, and are fast advancing in price

A CHANGE IN BAILIFFS.

A. M. Cornelius, the present genial and faithful bailiff of his Honor Judge Stott in the state circuit court leaves that position at the end of this term. His retirement will be regretted by all with whom he has had to deal and it will be hard to fill his place. This change is the result of a promise made by Judge Stott a year ago before Mr. Cornelius' faithful services were known and recognized as they since have been

Several of the jurors, believing Mr. Cornelius deserving of such an official recognition, prepared the following paper which has been signed by the members of the grand jury and all the other jurors who have been in attendance upon the court during the present term:

"To whom it may concern. We, the undersigned having officiated as jurors in the state circuit court during the year last past and up to the present time, beg leave to say that we are sorry owing to the promises made by His Honor Judge Stott a year ago to certain parties that he would appoint a new bailiff of the circuit court at the May term this year, A. D. 1888 that Mr. A. M. Cornelius, by virtue of the above arrangement retires from service in the court above named. Our relations with Mr. Cornelius, during our service as jurors, have been of the most pleasant kind. We have watched his conduct closely, as we have that of every officer with whom we have come in contact, and we unhesitatingly pronounce him an affable gentleman and a model officer. We shall not soon forget Mr. Cornelius as bailiff of the circuit court."

Concurring in the above are the names of District Attorney Caples, the sheriff and the attachés of his office, and many legal gentlemen who practiced in that court

THE EAST SIDE.

POLICE EFFICIENCY AND SPEEDY JUSTICE.

Last Saturday a robbery took place at the Home hotel, and to-day, just one week afterward, the perpetrators commence to pay the penalty for their deed at the penitentiary. This speedy justice is the reward of the vigilance of S. H. Keenan, the hotel proprietor, for which he is deserving of commendation. At 3 P. M. on the day stated the culprits, named Kimberly and Larry Hill, registered at the hotel, and about an hour afterwards disappeared simultaneously with a new $25 suit of clothes, belonging to one Jas. Ward, and a pair of shoes, the property of H. Jones. Immediately upon this discovery Mr. Keenan notified the police of both Portlands and also hired a man by the day to search for the clothes, and offered $20 reward for the arrest of the guilty parties. He was rewarded by Detective Hudson finding the clothing in the shop of a First street pawnbroker on Monday, leading to the arrest of the culprits by Officer Berry on Tuesday. On Wednesday they had an examination in the police court and held to appear before the grand jury under bonds of $500 each. On Thursday the grand jury found true bills against them and on Friday they were arraigned and pleaded guilty, having no chance of escape. Kimberly, the elder of the two and a confirmed criminal, was sentenced to five years, and Hill, the younger, not having been previously convicted, escaped with a sentence of two years. The law's delay has become so common that it is refreshing to see a case wherein justice has been meted out speedily.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICE.

Presbyterian services will be held in Odd Fellows' hall, corner of J and Tenth streets, Sabbath, April 29, as follows: Preaching by the pastor, Rev. D. O. Ghormley, at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday-school at 12:30 P. M. Prayer meeting Thursday, at 7:30 P. M. Strangers made welcome. All are invited to these services.

SHADY ESCAPES.

The examination of F. J. Brady for taking unlawful possession of a yoke of oxen from Powell & Bates' ranch, took place before Justice Bullock yesterday afternoon. Three witnesses were examined for the prosecution and an equal number for the defense. After arguments by W. T. Burney for the prosecution and E. N. Steves for the defense, the case was submitted. The court decided in favor of the prisoner, holding that the evidence failed to show any felonious intent, and he was released. There is still a case of [illegible] against him.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.

"I have been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them, unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said: "Hurrah for Hop Bitters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—The Mother.

GOOD BABIES.

'Tis a jolly day from east to west,
The children thrive, and mothers rest;
The darling girls all named Victoria,
And with the boys, they have Castoria.
It is a fact, there's no "may be,"
A mother's milk can't save the baby,
While great Castoria digests their food,
Gives them health and makes them good.

New York Freights and Markets.

NEW YORK, April 27.—[Special.]—There is nothing new in the clipper freight market, which appears to be wholly dependent upon a few regular shippers of certain classes of merchandise, with an occasional shipment from an outside source. However, as several through shipments are made up of round lots, ships manage to have fair dispatch. The J. B. Thomas is the leading ship, and will be the last to get away this month. Rates are unchanged, though weaker; the supply of tonnage is far ahead of the demand, even at much lower rates. Both California lines are well supplied, and no engagement is noted. Overland freight is very quiet, being dull at this period of the year, and no great improvement is looked for in the next sixty days. The recent cutting of rates by the Texas Pacific road had but little effect, as shippers had hoped for further reduction, and hence there was no increase in movement. Shipments the past week included 182 bbls oysters, 308 pkgs tobacco, 125 cases salad dressing, 56 cases milk, 63 bags coffee, 285 cases canned goods, 20 bbls glucose, 50 boxes cheese, 150 cases sauce, 130 cases baking powder, 13 cases olives. Shipments by the Sunset route include 313 pkgs tobacco, 180 boxes soap, 300 bags coffee, 100 cases capers, 25 boxes pepper sauce, 48 cases canned goods. The cutting of rates by several of the lines has ceased for the time being, although they stand at 10 per cent. less than the tariff on the first four classes by all other routes. How long the scare will prevail is not known, but there is an impression in some quarters that the fight will be renewed, the result of which will be the making of a solid pool, with a single head acting for all routes.

New York Freights.

NEW YORK, April 26.—[Special.]—The clipper freight market, while no less active, shows no signs of improving, and ships fill rather slowly. The J. B. Thomas is the leading vessel, and will finish by the end of the month. The Governor Robie is doing fairly, but will not get away before the 10th prox. The cargo of the Wm. McGilvrey, which sailed on the 21st inst., included 2000 cases oil, 30 bbls glucose, 700 pkgs whisky, 100 cases cider, 75 bbls rosin, 500 bbls plaster, 175 coils rope, 400 tons muck iron, 500 tons coal. Rates are quoted at basis of eight dollars per ton but less has been accepted for certain lots of freights. Available supply of tonnage is in excess of the demand, and the number ships in port is larger than for many months. The only engagement to note is that of the new ship, E. F. Sawyer, to load mineral cargo for this port.

The excitement in the overland freight market has subsided and all is again working smoothly. Rates on first four classes are now equal by all routes.

The steamer Crescent City sailed [illegible] for Aspinwall yesterday with a cargo of [illegible] return with a cargo of bananas etc., as offerings are too large for retailers and consumers to carry.

LIVERPOOL GRAIN MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, April 27.—Breadstuffs, dull. California wheat, No. 1, 9s 3d@9s 4d; No. 2, 9s 0d; winter, red western, 8s 10d@9s 1d. Corn, red western mixed, 5s@5s 7d. Receipts the past three days Wheat, 136,000; American 94,000.

Restore Hair on Bald Heads.

WHAT THE WORLD HAS BEEN WANTING FOR CENTURIES.

Of all the compounds which the chemist's art has given to the world for hundreds of years for the purpose of restoring hair to its natural growth and color, not one has been perfect. Many of the hair dressings of the day are excellent, but the great mass of the stuffs sold for promoting the growth and bringing back the original color are mere humbugs, while not a few are positively pernicious in their effects upon the scalp and the structure of the hair. All hair dyes are well known to be ruinous, because the change in color is artificial, and does not depend upon a restoration of the functions of the scalp to their natural healthy condition. The falling out of the hair, accumulation of dandruff, and the premature change in color, are all evidences of a diseased condition of the scalp and the glands which nourish the hair. To arrest these causes the article used must possess medical as well as chemical virtues, and the change must begin from the scalp to be of permanent and lasting benefit. Such an article has been discovered, and, like many other wonderful discoveries, it is found to consist of elements almost in their natural state. Petroleum is the article which is made to work such extraordinary results; but it is after the best refined article has been chemically treated and completely deodorized, that it is in proper condition for the toilet. It was in far-off Russia that the effect of petroleum upon the hair was first observed, a government officer having noticed that a partially bald-headed servant of his, when trimming the lamps, had a habit of wiping his oil besmeared hands in his scanty locks, and the result was, in a few months, a much finer head of black, glossy hair than he ever had before. The oil was tried on horses and cattle that had lost their hair from the cattle plague, and the results were as rapid as they were marvelous. The manes and even the tails of horses, which had fallen out, were completely restored in a few weeks. These experiments were heralded to the world, but the knowledge was practically useless to the prematurely bald and gray, as no one in civilized society could tolerate the use of refined petroleum as a dressing for the hair. But the skill of one of our chemists has overcome the difficulty, and by a process known only to himself he has, after very elaborate and costly experiments, succeeded in deodorizing refined petroleum, which renders it susceptible of being handled as daintily as the famous eau de cologne. The experiments with the deodorized liquid on the human hair were attended with the most astonishing results. A few applications where the hair was thin and falling gave remarkable tone and vigor to the scalp and the hair and the natural color began to appear almost from the first application. Every particle of dandruff disappears on the first or second dressing, and the liquid, so searching in its nature seems to penetrate the roots at once, and set up a radical change from the start. It is well known that the most beautiful colors are made from petroleum, and by some mysterious operation of nature the use of this article gradually imparts a beautiful light brown color to the hair, which, by continued use, deepens to a black. The color remains permanent for an indefinite length of time, and the change is so gradual that the most intimate friends can scarcely detect its progress. In a word, it is the most wonderful discovery of the age, and well calculated to make the prematurely bald and gray rejoice. We advise our readers to give it a trial, feeling satisfied that one application will convince them of its wonderful effects.—Pittsburgh Commercial of October 2, 1877.

This article is telling its own story in the hands of thousands who are using it with the most gratifying and encouraging results.

MR. GUSTAVUS F. HALL, of the Gates Opera Troupe, writes: "After six weeks' use I am convinced that CARBOLINE has and is producing a wonderful growth of hair where I had none for years."

"Your CARBOLINE restored my hair after everything else had failed. I consider it the best thing out for the purpose intended.

A Little Story with a Large Moral—One Man who Knew his own Business.

"No, my dear," said the venerable keeper of a country store to a timid little girl whose head scarcely came up to the level of the counter. "No, my dear, we haven't any red flannel, but we have some first rate New Orleans molasses." Softly stating that she didn't think that would answer the purpose quite as well, the child went her way in search of the article she wanted.

"Have you BENSON'S CAPCINE PLASTERS?" asked a gentleman of a certain druggist whose name could be given were it desired. "I am troubled just now with a touch of my old friend, the lumbago, and the Benson's Plaster seems to go to the spot almost as soon as it touches the skin."

"Not at present," replied the druggist, genially; "but we have lots of plasters just as good. There is Allcock's, the Capsicum and others; won't one of them do as well?"

"My dear sir," retorted the gentleman, with a slight show of temper, "I say nothing against those articles, but I am a business man, and always ask for precisely what I want, and for nothing else. I may enlighten you, however, when I say that some time ago, for another disease of which the Capcine has since cured me, I tried all those you mention, with no appreciable benefit. They are inefficient, every one of them, the meanest of some of the proprietors being this, that they make plasters with similar sounding names to deceive the unwary into believing they are the same thing. Experience taught me the difference. I'll go to the next man in your line. Good day."

Be on your guard against imitations. The genuine has the word CAPCINE cut cleanly in the middle of the plaster. All others are impositions.
